Scholarship Benefits Area High School Students

The Arkansas Northeastern College Early College Credit Program is a community service offered to area high school students enabling them to earn college credit while attending their own high school. The program is a partnership between ANC and participating school districts and provides the opportunity for eligible high school students to get a jump start on college before graduating high school. Participating high schools include Armorel, Blytheville, Buffalo Island Central, Gosnell, Manila, Osceola, Rivercrest, and Riverside.

Enrollment is currently underway for area high school students receiving the new Early College scholarship approved in March by the ANC Board of Trustees. The Early College scholarship offers students enrolled in all Mississippi County high schools, public or private, net tuition/fee cost of $25 per credit hour for up to six hours of concurrent credit per semester for students. The Early College scholarship applies to blended online/Advanced Placement courses, live general education offerings delivered to local high schools, and courses taken independently by county high school students while concurrently enrolled in high school. ANC can serve up to 300 county high school students each year through this scholarship if each participating student were to take six hours each semester. If all 300 scholarships are not utilized by Mississippi County students during their registration process for each upcoming semester, remaining concurrent credit scholarships are offered to students at other Arkansas high schools within the ANC service district such as Greene and Craighead Counties. Enrollment data thus far will necessitate at least 16 course sections of concurrent credit, a significant increase over previous years.

Student Focus Groups Offer Great Insight

President Dr. James Shemwell met with more than 30 ANC students in small focus groups throughout the month of November. Participating students either volunteered or were nominated by faculty members based on their academic majors and leadership affiliations. The meetings were extremely productive with an overall feeling of satisfaction from the student representatives. Hearing about the ANC college experience from the students' perspective and finding out what works well and what needs improvement, is invaluable in furthering the mission of Arkansas Northeastern College.

ON THE COVER PERLA MALDONADO

Perla Iveth Maldonado, who is featured on the cover of this issue of ANC Connections, is a full-time student at Arkansas Northeastern College and a part-time employee of the ANC Adams/Vines library. Perla is always eager to help students and staff as they visit the library. She has an interest in international business and is currently working on her Associate of Science in Business transfer degree at ANC. Upon completion of her associate degree, Maldonado plans to continue her studies at a four-year university. She is an honor graduate of Manila High School and currently lives in Osceola with her parents, one sister, and three brothers. The Maldonado family came here from Mexico twenty-three years ago. Mr. Maldonado owns and operates his own trucking business. As a first generation American, Perla Maldonado is not afraid of hard work and knows the value of education. Perla loves to read—especially novels by Nicholas Sparks and fashion magazines. When you see Perla Maldonado on campus, you are always greeted by her beautiful smile. The secret, according to Maldonado, is shopping. “It is the best stress reliever.” ANC is proud to have motivated and friendly students like Perla.

ANC Intramurals will also offer co-ed softball and disc golf. # ANC to Offer Free Workforce Readiness Programs; Partners with Big River Steel for Future Hiring Process

OSCEOLA, Arkansas—As Arkansas' newest super-project, Big River Steel, begins construction in Mississippi County, Arkansas Northeastern College (ANC) has announced two workforce readiness programs to aid local residents hoping to join the company's team — both offered at no cost to the student.

In preliminary meetings with representatives of Big River Steel, ANC recognized the company's desire to provide job opportunities to residents of the local community. To meet those needs, ANC's workforce training division, The Solutions Group, will focus on providing all levels of job preparation.

"Providing accessible educational and training opportunities is our mission, and we are proud to offer workforce training to our local companies and new companies coming to the area such as Big River Steel. The Solutions Group has garnered national recognition for its innovation and flexibility, and we are glad to offer that experience and knowledge to the economic development of this region," said Dr. James Shemwell, President of Arkansas Northeastern College.

ANC's Construction Technology and Workforce Orientation & Retraining Keys (WORK) programs have been implemented prior to Big River Steel's location to the area to get a head start on meeting the employment needs that will arise as well as several other announced projects such as BlueOak Arkansas, SMS Millcraft, Mid-River Terminal, Jefferson Iron & Metal, The Material Works (TMW) and future not-yet-known ventures.

Working in partnership with the Arkansas Department of Workforce Services, ANC also will assist Big River Steel in its hiring procedure by funneling the application process through its website and Workforce Development Office. The company is partnering with ANC to oversee the large amount of job seekers expected. This will provide a consistent and uncomplicated method by which to apply for a position within the company as well as learn about available training opportunities. The ANC website will post the application procedure as soon as the hiring process is ready which is expected to occur in the spring of 2015.

"Every individual inquiring about a job is important to us," said Mark Bula, Chief Commercial Officer for Big River Steel. "We want applicants to have access to consistent information about available opportunities for employment and related training. As such, we look forward to working closely with Arkansas Northeastern College as we begin to implement our hiring plans."

Additionally, ANC will work with the contractors selected by Big River Steel to supply training for construction skills so that the level of local employees will be maximized. ANC has already implemented a new certificate program in Construction Technology to begin preparing individuals as several new companies in the area increase the need for construction employees, including the Big River Steel mill which will require approximately 2,000 workers. While Big River Steel serves as a catalyst for the execution of both ANC's WORK Program and the Construction Technology Certificate Program, these programs are designed to prepare workers for a number of employment opportunities with a wide variety of local companies.

"It's an exciting time in Mississippi County as growth becomes a reality. It will have an impact throughout our entire region, and we are proud to implement new programs to meet the needs of our local companies and citizens. To this effort, we expand our training region-wide and partner with our sister institutions to maximize the training potential," said Gene Bennett, ANC Dean for Economic Development.

ANC is working in cooperation with other colleges in the Arkansas Delta Training & Education Consortium (ADTEC), including Arkansas State University-Newport, East Arkansas Community College, and Mid-South Community College, so that those colleges also may offer programs as a regional initiative in the very near future.

One such program conceived by ANC is Workforce Orientation & Retraining Keys (WORK). This 60-clock hour program was developed to provide basic workplace skills to members of the community with little or no prior work experience.

CONTINUED

“We’re already seeing success with our WORK program,” said Bennett who added that the training was designed to lift unemployed individuals out of poverty and give them the skills to become employable. “There are a lot of jobs out there and a lot of jobs coming. We need able bodied people ready to fill them.”

The WORK Program provides individuals with the necessary skills and support network to access economic opportunity. Community mentors work with each WORK participant throughout the eight weeks of training and extending until the participant has successfully maintained employment for 90 days.

WORK participants have the opportunity to earn financial incentives during training to help remove barriers to employment, such as funds to purchase work clothes or specialized footwear. Completers of the WORK program have the opportunity to obtain a certificate of WORK completion, an American Heart Association CPR card, a Career Readiness Certificate (CRC), and job interview opportunities with local employers. WORK represents a comprehensive partnership effort among Arkansas Northeastern College, the Great River Economic Development Foundation, the Mississippi County Equal Opportunity Commission, area industries, community and faith-based leaders, and the Winthrop Rockefeller Foundation. Those interested in the WORK Program can contact Coordinator Doug Echols at 870-838-9905.

Additionally, the Construction Technology Program is designed to prepare students for entry level construction jobs. Students are taught the basics of construction safety, math, and power and hand tools. Students also develop skills in construction welding, concrete finishing, rigging, and light equipment usage. The goal of the program is to help the student acquire skills that can be used to enter the workplace and be a versatile member of a construction team. This program can be completed in only one semester or less. Individuals interested in Construction Technology can contact Kortnie Driskill at 870-763-6222.

In an effort to expand the local workforce to meet growing needs, both the certificate program in Construction Technology and the WORK Program are offered at no cost to students. Additionally, both programs are short-term (either 10 or 16 weeks for construction and eight weeks for WORK) to provide individuals a fast-track to employment.
